

April 5, 2006

Honorable sirs-

I write to you today as a fellow American concerned about the future direction of this country.

To be brief, I do not believe that Wal-Mart can be trusted with banking. Their record of legal adherence and business practices leave much to be desired.

It is also a dangerous concentration of power. We are, as a country, very close already to fascist tendencies in both corporate and government areas, and this would further that trend to the detriment to all but a very powerful few.

Specifically, local economies would be at the mercy of a corporate entity proven to have no mercy. This isn't good for America, and the importance of this decision cannot be overstated, given that wal-mart is already the largest corporation in the world.

Please attend this hearing, and stop this process from going forward. We have enough huge banks, and their lack of responsiveness, already.

Thanks for your attention-

-Jay Bryon

American Citizen